Pilot, Flight Instructor, Ground Instructor, and Pilot School Certification Rules; Correction

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Final rule; correction.

SUMMARY: This amendment makes corrections to the final rule published on April 4, 1997 (62 FR 16220). That rule amended the certification, training, and experience requirements for pilots, flight instructors, and ground instructors, and the certification requirements for pilot schools approved by the FAA. The corrections incorporate provisions inadvertently omitted in the final rule, clarify certain provisions, and provide for the consistent use of terminology.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This rule is effective August 4, 1997.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Lynch, Certification Branch, AFS-840, General Aviation and Commercial Division, Flight Standards Service, FAA, 800 Independence Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20591; telephone (202) 267-3844.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Background

On April 4, 1997, the FAA published a final rule titled "Pilot, Flight Instructor, Ground Instructor, and Pilot School Certification Rules; Final Rule" (62 FR 16220). Editorial and formatting corrections clarify the rules and make certain terminology consistent within parts 61 and 141. This document also incorporates certain provisions that were inadvertently omitted in the final rule. Those corrections that require explanation are discussed below.

Discussion of Corrections*Part 61*

Terminology. References to "approved flight simulators" and "approved flight training devices" have been changed to "flight simulators" and "flight training devices," respectively. As defined in §61.1(b)(5) and (b)(7), a flight simulator and a flight training device used to meet certain aeronautical experience requirements in part 61 must be evaluated, qualified, and approved by the Administrator. Therefore, use of the word "approved" is not necessary when referring to flight simulators and flight training devices in part 61. This change is consistent with the terminology used in part 142 of Title 14, Code of Federal Regulations (14 CFR). References to "instructor" have been changed to "authorized instructor" because only authorized instructors as defined in §61.1(b)(2) may provide training. References to "required pilot," "required pilot crewmember," and "required flight crewmember" have been changed to "required pilot flight crewmember" to provide for consistency throughout part 61. In addition, references to "currency requirements" have been changed to "recent flight experience requirements" to accurately describe these requirements.

Section 61.1 Applicability and definitions. Paragraph (b)(3), which defines cross-country time, has been reorganized. In addition, the FAA expanded the definition to clarify what flight time may be logged as cross-country time for the purposes of meeting certain aeronautical experience requirements for the certificates and ratings issued under part 61. The FAA also added provisions for the logging of cross-country time for the purposes of exercising recreational pilot privileges under §61.101(c).

The FAA notes that after August 4, 1997, cross-country time for pilots seeking an airline transport pilot (ATP) certificate (except with a rotorcraft rating) must involve a flight that is at least a straight-line distance of more than 50 nautical miles from the original point of departure. If the pilot is seeking an ATP certificate with a rotorcraft rating, the cross-country flight must include a landing that is at least a straight-line distance of more than 25 nautical miles from the original point of departure. Because pilots seeking an ATP certificate did not previously have to meet these distance requirements, any cross-country time logged before August 4, 1997, may be used to meet the ATP aeronautical experience requirements. However, after that date, cross-country time logged for the purposes of meeting the aeronautical experience requirements for an ATP certificate must comply with the distance requirements.

Section 61.2 Certification of foreign pilots, flight instructors, and ground instructors. The FAA has corrected the first sentence of paragraph (a) by adding the phrase "other than under §61.75." This language, which was included in §61.2 before the adoption of the final rule, is necessary to except from the provisions of §61.2 the holders of private pilot certificates issued on the basis of a foreign pilot license under §61.75.

Section 61.3 Requirement for certificates, ratings, and authorizations. Paragraph (c)(1) has been reorganized to parallel the format of paragraph (a). In addition, it may have appeared from the language adopted in the final rule that all individuals listed in paragraph (d)(3) are permitted to provide the training and endorsements described in paragraphs (d)(2)(i) through (iv) without holding a flight instructor certificate. The FAA corrected paragraph (d)(3) to clarify that the holder of a ground instructor certificate may only provide the training and endorsements in paragraphs (d)(2)(i) and (d)(2)(iii), and new paragraph (d)(2)(ii)(C), and a flight instructor authorized under §61.41 is only permitted to provide the endorsement in paragraph (d)(2)(iii). Similarly, the FAA expanded the provisions of paragraph (i) to clarify what ground training and endorsements may be provided by individuals who do not hold a ground instructor certificate.

The FAA notes that the preamble to the final rule states that under paragraph (d) the phrase "other documentation acceptable to the Administrator" would permit a flight instructor to use a copy of a graduation certificate from a CFI refresher course and a copy of the completed application for renewal to meet the requirements of that paragraph. However, the FAA has determined that the latter document is not necessary. Therefore, a copy of a graduation certificate from a CFI refresher course, without the application for renewal, is acceptable documentation for the purpose of meeting the requirements of paragraph (d).

Section 61.11 Expired pilot certificates and reissuance. Paragraph (g) addresses the expiration of pilot certificates issued on the basis of a foreign license and, therefore, is more appropriately included in paragraph (c), which also addresses this issue. In making this correction, the FAA incorporated the language that was contained in §61.11 before the adoption of the final rule because that language more clearly explains the circumstances under which an expiration date will not be included on a pilot certificate that is issued on the basis of a foreign pilot license. The FAA also corrected paragraph (c) by adding at the end of the first sentence the phrase "unless otherwise specified on the U.S. certificate" to address previously issued special purpose pilot certificates that contain an expiration date.

Section 61.13 Issuance of airman certificates, ratings, and authorizations. This section has been reformatted to allow for the addition of paragraph headings. In addition, new paragraph (a)(2)(i) contains a reference to appendix A to part 187. That appendix references Advisory Circular No. 187-1, which contains a schedule of charges for the services of FAA aviation safety inspectors outside the United States.

Section 61.31 Type rating requirements, additional training, and authorization requirements. Paragraph (e) addresses exceptions to §61.31 and, therefore, has been redesignated as paragraph (k). Consequently, paragraphs (e) through (j) have been redesignated. The FAA added paragraph (k)(2)(v), which provides that the rating limitations of §61.31 do not apply to the holder of a recreational pilot certificate when operating under the provisions of §61.101(h). This exception for recreational pilots was included in §61.31 before the adoption of the final rule. In addition, new paragraph (g) is corrected by including an endorsement requirement for ground training received on the operation of pressurized aircraft at high altitudes. This requirement was included in §61.31(f) before the adoption of the final rule and was inadvertently omitted. New paragraphs (g) and (i) also have been reformatted to more clearly set forth the additional training requirements for operating pressurized aircraft capable of operating at high altitudes and for operating tailwheel airplanes.

Section 61.45 Practical tests: Required aircraft and equipment. The FAA added the phrase "unless otherwise authorized by the Administrator" at the beginning of paragraph (b). This language is necessary because some aircraft are not approved for all of the maneuvers required to be performed during a practical test. For example, an Airbus 300 is not approved for steep turns; however, the Administrator has determined that an applicant can receive a rating in an Airbus 300 without performing that maneuver. A similar provision was included in §61.13(c) before the adoption of the final rule but was inadvertently omitted when the provisions of that paragraph were incorporated into §61.45(b).

Section 61.51 Pilot logbooks. The FAA corrected paragraph (b)(1)(ii) to include "lesson time" as information to be recorded in logbook entries. This provision is necessary because simulator time and flight time are not synonymous. Training time acquired in a simulator must be logged as "lesson time" unless otherwise specified in part

61. For example, §61.109(i) permits certain training time acquired in a flight simulator or flight training device to be credited toward the flight training time requirements of that section.

The FAA notes that §61.51 no longer contains a provision for the logging of "other pilot time." Few or no comments were received to the proposed deletion of this provision in Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (Notice No. 95-11 (60 FR 41160, August 11, 1995)). Therefore, after August 4, 1997, only solo, pilot-in-command, second-in-command, or training time may be logged in accordance with §61.51 for the purpose of meeting the aeronautical experience requirements of part 61. For example, after the effective date of the rule, a pilot who is the sole manipulator of the controls of an aircraft but who is not rated in the aircraft or receiving training will no longer be able to log "other pilot time" for the purpose of meeting the aeronautical training or experience requirements of part 61.

In paragraph (d) the FAA clarified that a student pilot logging solo flight time in an airship requiring more than one pilot flight crewmember is "performing the functions of" pilot in command rather than "acting as" pilot in command. A similar correction has been made in paragraph (e). This language is consistent with the language used in other sections of part 61 to describe the activities of an individual who is receiving solo flight training in an airship.

Paragraph (e)(4) has been corrected to clarify when a student pilot may log pilot-in-command flight time. In addition, paragraph (e)(4)(iii) no longer contains the phrase "is logging pilot-in-command flight time to obtain the pilot-in-command flight experience requirements for a pilot certificate or aircraft rating." Because paragraph (e) permits a student pilot who is undergoing training for a pilot certificate or rating to log pilot-in-command flight time, this language is not necessary. The FAA notes that pilot-in-command flight time logged under paragraph (e) may be used to meet the pilot-in-command aeronautical experience requirements for additional certificates and ratings.

Paragraph (i)(3) has been reformatted and a provision has been added to provide that a recreational pilot also must carry his or her logbook when conducting operations under §61.101(h). This correction is consistent with the requirement in §61.101(i).

Section 61.55 Second-in-command qualifications. The FAA has deleted the reference to flight training devices in paragraph (b)(2). Amendment No. 61-100, "Aircraft Flight Simulator Use in Pilot Training, Testing, and Checking at Training Centers" (61 FR 34508, July 2, 1996), did not provide for the use of flight training devices to meet the recent flight experience requirements for pilots serving as second-in-command of an aircraft type certificated for more than one required pilot flight crewmember or in operations requiring a second in command. The reference to flight training devices was inadvertently included in the final rule. The FAA notes the use of flight simulators is permitted to meet the requirements of paragraph (b)(2).

In paragraph (b)(2)(i) the requirement for full-stop landings was inadvertently omitted from the recent flight experience requirements. This requirement was included in §61.55(b)(2)(i) before the adoption of the final rule and the FAA did not propose deleting it in Notice No. 95-10. Therefore, the requirement for full-stop landings has been reinstated in the final rule.

Section 61.57 Recent flight experience: Pilot in command. As adopted in the final rule, the recent flight experience requirements of paragraph (a)(1) could be interpreted as precluding a pilot who does not meet those requirements from acting as second in command of an aircraft requiring more than one pilot flight crewmember. However, this was not the FAA's intention; therefore, the language in this paragraph has been corrected to provide that a person not meeting the requirements of §61.57(a)(1) may not act as "a pilot in command of an aircraft carrying passengers or of an aircraft certificated for more than one pilot flight crewmember."

The FAA reorganized paragraph (b) to parallel the format of paragraph (a). In addition, the FAA added paragraph (b)(1) to require that a pilot must be the sole manipulator of the flight controls to meet the night takeoff and landing experience requirements. Paragraph (b)(2) has been added to require that the takeoff and landings are performed in the appropriate category, class, and type, if applicable, of aircraft. These requirements were included in §61.57 before the adoption of the final rule and were proposed in Notice No. 95-10. The FAA did not intend to omit these requirements from the final rule.

The FAA notes that accomplishment of the night takeoff and landing requirements in paragraph (b) may be used to satisfy the requirements of paragraph (a). However, the accomplishment of the day takeoff and landings required in paragraph (a) may not be used to satisfy the requirements of paragraph (b).

Section 61.58 Pilot-in-command proficiency check: Operation of aircraft requiring more than one pilot flight crewmember. The FAA inadvertently omitted from paragraph (b) the exception for persons maintaining continuing qualification under an Advanced Qualification Program approved under Special Federal Aviation Regulation 58. In addition, the FAA added language to clarify that the pilot-in-command proficiency checks and tests specified in paragraphs (d)(1) through (d)(3) must be completed in an aircraft type certificated for more than one required pilot flight crewmember. Because § 61.58 only applies to pilot-in-command proficiency checks for operating aircraft type certificated for more than one required pilot flight crewmember, this correction was necessary to ensure that the checks or tests were performed in an aircraft appropriate to the operations the pilot will be authorized to conduct.

Paragraph (e) has been expanded to include a provision for the use of an otherwise qualified and approved flight simulator that is not qualified and approved for a specific maneuver required during the pilot-in-command proficiency check. This provision was adopted in Amendment No. 61-100 but inadvertently omitted in the final rule.

Section 61.63 Additional aircraft ratings (other than on an airline transport pilot certificate). The FAA reinstated a provision in paragraph (c)(4) to provide that a person who holds a lighter-than-air category rating with a balloon class rating and seeks an airship class rating must meet the training time requirements prescribed for an airship class rating. This requirement was included in § 61.63 before the adoption of the final rule and was inadvertently omitted.

As adopted in the final rule, an applicant for an additional type rating would be required to perform the practical test under "instrument flight rules." It was not the FAA's intention to require an applicant to file an instrument flight rules (IFR) flight plan. Section 61.63 did not contain such a requirement before the adoption of the final rule. The FAA has corrected paragraph (d)(5) to require that the practical test for an additional type rating must be performed in actual or simulated instrument conditions.

Former paragraph (i) has been deleted because it duplicated the provisions of paragraph (h). Paragraphs (j) through (l) have been redesignated as paragraphs (i) through (k). In addition, the section heading has been revised to more accurately reflect the content of the section.

Section 61.65 Instrument rating requirements. The FAA corrected paragraph (a)(1) to provide that a person applying for an instrument rating must only hold a private pilot certificate with an airplane, helicopter, or powered-lift rating as appropriate to the instrument rating sought. The previous language was more general and may have caused confusion because only airplane, helicopter, and powered-lift instrument ratings are issued on pilot certificates. For the same reason, equivalent changes have been made to paragraphs (a)(5) and (a)(8)(i).

The FAA also corrected paragraph (a)(8)(ii) to clarify that if a flight training device is used for the practical test, the instrument approach procedures are limited to one precision and one nonprecision approach. The words "instrument approach" were inadvertently omitted in the final rule. It was not the FAA's intent to limit all procedures accomplished in a flight training device to one precision and one nonprecision approach.

Section 61.69 Glider towing: Experience and training requirements. To meet the recent experience requirement for towing gliders, a pilot is required to meet the requirements of paragraph (a)(6)(i) or paragraph (a)(6)(ii). Paragraph (a)(6)(i) requires a pilot to perform three actual glider tows while accompanied by a qualified pilot. Paragraph (a)(6)(ii) requires a pilot to make at least three flights as pilot in command of a glider towed by an aircraft. In paragraph (a)(6)(i), the FAA inadvertently omitted the provision allowing pilots to meet the recent experience requirement by performing at least three simulated glider tows while accompanied by a qualified pilot. This provision was included in § 61.69 before adoption of the final rule and is necessary because not all glider clubs have two-place glider tow airplanes. In addition, a pilot who does not have a glider rating would not be able to meet the alternative recent experience requirement under paragraph (a)(6)(ii).

Section 61.73 Military pilots or former military pilots: Special rules. As adopted in the final rule, the language in paragraph (c)(2) inadvertently required an applicant to present documentation that he or she was on active military status during the 12 months preceding application for a pilot certificate or rating based on the applicant's military training. However, paragraph (c) specifically addresses the requirements for military pilots who were not on active military status during that time period. Paragraph (c)(2) has been corrected by incorporating language contained in § 61.73 before the adoption of the final rule.

Section 61.77 Special purpose pilot authorization: Operation of U.S.-registered civil aircraft leased by a person who is not a U.S. citizen. The FAA corrected paragraph (b) to clarify that an applicant must present to a Flight Standards District Office all documentation required to establish his or her eligibility for a special purpose pilot authorization.

Paragraph (d), which describes the circumstances under which a special purpose pilot authorization is valid, has been corrected to include several provisions that were contained in § 61.77 before adoption of the final rule and that were inadvertently omitted in the rulemaking process. Under new paragraph (d)(2) the holder of a special purpose pilot authorization must have the medical documentation required by paragraph (b) in his or her physical possession or immediately accessible in the aircraft while exercising the privileges of the authorization. In addition, new paragraphs (d)(3) and (d)(4) provide that a special purpose pilot authorization remains valid only while the holder of the authorization is employed by the person who provides the certification required by paragraph (b) and while the holder operates the aircraft described in that certification.

Paragraph (i) has been established to address the renewal requirements previously included in paragraph (d), "General limitations." In addition, the FAA has added paragraph (j) to address the surrender of a special purpose pilot authorization. This provision was contained in § 61.77 before the adoption of the final rule.

Section 61.87 Solo requirements for student pilots. The FAA determined that it is necessary to add the phrase "if applicable" at the conclusion of paragraphs (i) (4), (10), and (11).

The maneuvers described in paragraphs (i) (4) and (10) are required only if a student pilot is receiving training in a powered glider. The maneuver described in paragraph (i)(11) is required only if training is received in a nonpowered glider. In addition, paragraph (m)(3) has been deleted because it duplicated the endorsement requirement contained in paragraph (m)(4).

Section 61.93 Solo cross-country flight requirements. This section addresses the solo cross-country flight requirements for student pilots. Therefore, the FAA has removed paragraph (c)(2)(ii) because that paragraph addressed cross-country endorsement requirements for certificated pilots receiving training for an additional aircraft category and class rating. The endorsement requirements for pilots seeking additional aircraft ratings are contained in § 61.63.

Section 61.96 Applicability and eligibility requirements: General. The FAA has corrected paragraph (b)(6) to provide that an applicant for a recreational pilot certificate must meet the aeronautical experience requirements of § 61.99 before applying for the practical test. This requirement is consistent with the eligibility requirements for other certificates issued under part 61.

Section 61.109 Aeronautical experience. The introductory paragraph of this section, as adopted in the final rule, sets forth the total aeronautical experience requirements for persons seeking a private pilot certificate with an airplane, rotorcraft, or powered-lift category rating. However, this section also addresses the requirements for obtaining a private pilot certificate with a glider, airship, or balloon rating. Consequently, the FAA added introductory language to each of the paragraphs describing the total aeronautical requirements for the particular ratings. The FAA has not included any additional requirements for obtaining these ratings.

The FAA notes that the instrument training required by paragraphs (a)(3), (b)(3), and (e)(3) need not be provided by an authorized instructor who holds an instrument rating on his or her flight instructor's certificate. Instrument training for a private pilot certificate only requires training on basic instrument maneuvers such as straight and level flight, constant airspeed climbs and descents, turns to a heading, and recovery from unusual flight attitudes; therefore, the FAA does not require that such training be provided by an instructor who holds a flight instructor certificate with an instrument rating. The rule language of paragraphs (a)(3), (b)(3), and (e)(3) has been corrected to reflect this policy.

Section 61.110 Night flying exceptions. The FAA corrected paragraph (b)(2) to provide that a private pilot certificate issued with the limitation "Night flying prohibited" will become invalid for use if the pilot does not comply with the night flight training requirements within 12 calendar months after issuance of the certificate. It may have appeared from the language adopted in the final rule that the FAA would pursue an enforcement action to suspend the pilot certificate if the night flight training requirements were not met within the 12-month period. This is not the case; however, the pilot certificate will be invalid for use after that period until the pilot meets the night flight training requirements.

Section 61.129 Aeronautical experience. The FAA removed the references to the hours that may be credited for training received in a flight simulator or flight training device from paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (e), which describe the total aeronautical experience requirements for obtaining a commercial pilot certificate with an airplane, helicopter, or powered-lift rating. It is no longer necessary to include this language because paragraph (i), which addresses the crediting of training received in a flight simulator or flight training device, was included in this section with the adoption of Amendment No. 61-100. In addition, the FAA corrected paragraphs (a)(2)(ii), (b)(2)(ii), and (e)(2)(ii) to provide that only 10 of the 50 hours of required cross-country flight for an airplane or powered-lift rating must be accomplished in the category of aircraft for which the applicant is seeking a rating.

Paragraphs (a)(3)(ii) and (b)(3)(ii) require that a person seeking a commercial pilot certificate with a single-engine or multiengine rating receive training in a complex aircraft. As adopted in the final rule, § 61.129 did not address those requirements as they apply to seaplanes. Therefore, the FAA added language to paragraphs (a)(3)(ii) and (b)(3)(ii) to provide that an applicant for a commercial pilot certificate with a seaplane rating must obtain 10 hours of training in a seaplane that has flaps and a controllable pitch propeller.

The requirement for cross-country training in night visual flight rules (VFR) conditions for applicants seeking a commercial pilot certificate with a powered-lift rating was inadvertently omitted from paragraph (e)(3)(iii). This requirement was proposed in Notice No. 95-10 and is consistent with the cross-country flight training requirements for persons seeking a commercial pilot certificate with an airplane, rotorcraft, or airship rating.

As adopted in the final rule, paragraph (i)(3) provided for a reduction in the total aeronautical experience requirements if an applicant for a commercial pilot certificate with an airplane, helicopter, or powered-lift rating satisfactorily completes an approved commercial pilot course conducted by a training center certificated under part 142. However, the hours specified in paragraph (i)(3)(ii) did not result in a reduction in the total aeronautical experience requirements for applicants seeking a commercial pilot certificate with a helicopter rating. Therefore, the FAA removed the reference to the helicopter rating in paragraph (i)(3).

Section 61.131 Exceptions to the night flying requirements. The FAA corrected paragraph (b)(2) to provide that a commercial pilot certificate issued with the limitation "Night flying prohibited" will become invalid for use if the pilot does not comply with the night flight training requirements within 12 calendar months after issuance of the certificate. This correction is consistent with the change to § 61.110(b)(2).

Section 61.133 Commercial pilot privileges and limitations. A provision permitting a commercial pilot with a lighter-than-air category rating to provide training and endorsements for a flight review, operating privilege, or recency of experience requirements was inadvertently omitted from paragraphs (a)(2)(i) and (a)(2)(ii). The FAA added paragraphs (a)(2)(i)(E) and (a)(2)(ii)(D) to provide for these privileges.

Section 61.153 Eligibility requirements: General. The FAA inadvertently included the phrase "if the person holds a pilot license" in the eligibility requirements for pilots applying for an ATP certificate, and who hold a foreign ATP license or a foreign commercial pilot license and an instrument rating. This language was a superfluous addition and has been deleted. In addition, the requirement that the applicant hold the foreign pilot license and instrument rating without limitations was inadvertently omitted from the final rule. This language was included in § 61.155 before the adoption of the final rule and has been reinstated.

Section 61.157 Flight proficiency. As adopted in the final rule, an applicant for a type rating would be required to perform the practical test under "instrument flight rules." It was not the FAA's intention to require an applicant to file an IFR flight plan; therefore, the FAA has corrected paragraph (b)(3) to require that the practical test for an additional type rating be performed in actual or simulated instrument conditions.

In Amendment No. 61-101, "Aircraft Flight Simulator Use in Pilot Training, Testing, and Checking at Training Centers; Editorial and Other Changes" (62 FR 13788, March 21, 1997), the FAA revised § 61.157, in part, to provide that a check conducted under 14 CFR § 121.441 and used to satisfy the requirements of § 61.157 must be a pilot-in-command proficiency check. This requirement was inadvertently omitted from § 61.157 when the final rule was adopted. This requirement has been incorporated into paragraph (f)(1).

Section 61.165 Additional aircraft category and class ratings. The FAA corrected paragraphs (b) and (c) by removing the references to class ratings. This correction is necessary because a knowledge test is not required when a person who holds an ATP certificate seeks an additional class rating within the same aircraft category. The FAA has added paragraph (e) to address this situation.

Section 61.183 Eligibility requirements. The FAA has clarified the eligibility requirement contained in paragraph (c)(2) for persons seeking a flight instructor certificate. Under new paragraph (c)(2), an applicant is required to hold either a commercial pilot certificate with an instrument rating or an ATP certificate with instrument privileges on that applicant's pilot certificate that is appropriate to the flight instructor rating sought. The word "privileges" refers to the instrument privileges held by airline transport pilots.

The reference in paragraph (e) to § 61.185(a) has been corrected to read § 61.185(a)(1). This correction was necessary because not all applicants for a flight instructor certificate or rating are required to pass a knowledge test on the fundamentals of instruction as specified in § 61.185(a)(1). However, the FAA notes that all applicants are required to pass a knowledge test on the appropriate aeronautical knowledge areas in § 61.185(a) (2) and (3).

Section 61.185 Aeronautical knowledge. For the same reasons stated in the preamble to the corrections of § 61.183, the reference to § 61.185(a) in paragraph (b) has been corrected to read § 61.185(a)(1).

Section 61.193 Flight instructor privileges. The FAA has removed from the introductory paragraph to this section the phrase "and that person's pilot certificate and rating." It may have appeared from this language that a flight instructor could instruct based only on that instructor's pilot certificate and ratings; however, a flight instructor is authorized to instruct only within the limitations on that person's flight instructor's certificate. The FAA notes that under § 61.195, a flight instructor may not conduct flight training in any aircraft for which the flight instructor does not hold a valid pilot certificate and flight instructor certificate, with the appropriate ratings. In addition, a flight instructor who provides flight training for the issuance of an instrument rating or type rating not limited to conducting operations under VFR must hold an instrument rating on his or her pilot certificate and flight instructor certificate that is appropriate to the category and class of aircraft in which instrument training is provided.

Section 61.217 Recent experience requirements. It was not the FAA's intention to require a ground instructor to meet the recent experience requirements by demonstrating proficiency to an FAA inspector or a designated pilot examiner. Therefore, paragraph (b) has been corrected to provide that the holder of a ground instructor certificate may not perform the duties of a ground instructor unless within the preceding 12 months that person has received an endorsement from an authorized ground or flight instructor who certifies that the person has demonstrated proficiency in the subject areas prescribed in § 61.213(a)(3) and (a)(4).

Part 141

Terminology. References to "instructor" have been changed to "authorized instructor" because only authorized instructors as defined in § 61.1(b)(2) may provide training.

Section 141.31 Applicability. Paragraphs (b)(1) and (b)(2) have been clarified by specifying that a pilot school or provisional pilot school must, at the time of application, have ownership of, or a written lease agreement for, a facility or airport for at least the 6 calendar months beyond the date that the application for initial certification and renewal was made.

Section 141.35 Chief instructor qualifications. Paragraph (a)(1) has been corrected by specifying that a chief instructor must hold an instrument rating only if such a rating is applicable to the course of training for the particular category and class of aircraft in which he or she will instruct. The language in the amendment inadvertently resulted in a requirement that a chief pilot for a commercial pilot-helicopter course must hold an instrument rating. In addition, paragraph (a)(6) has been corrected to include airships among the class of aircraft for which a chief instructor is required to have only 40 percent of the hours specified in paragraphs (b) and (d) of the section; those paragraphs include requirements for instrument instruction. The requirement in paragraph (a)(6) has been changed because the FAA proposed an instrument rating for airships in Notice No. 95-11, but inadvertently neglected to omit that proposal in the final rule. Paragraphs (a)(6) and (7) also have been combined to remove a reference to paragraph (c) that addresses instrument ratings, which no longer apply to airships.

Section 141.36 Assistant chief instructor qualifications. Paragraph (a) has been corrected by specifying that an assistant chief instructor must hold an instrument rating only if such a rating is applicable to the course of training for the particular category and class of aircraft in which he or she will instruct. This change was necessary for the same reasons that the requirements of § 141.35(a) were changed for chief instructors.

Section 141.53 Approval procedures for a training course: General. Paragraph (c)(1) has been clarified by specifying that the retention of a course's approval until 1 year after August 4, 1997, when that training course is submitted for approval before August 4, 1997, is permitted, but not mandated, by the rule, which was never the FAA's intent.

Section 141.63 Examining authority qualification requirements. Paragraph (a)(5) has been corrected by replacing the word "after" with the word "before" because the paragraph lists the requirements that a school must meet before it can apply for examining authority.

Section 141.75 Aircraft requirements. This section has been changed by deleting paragraphs (b) and (c) because they contained provisions in § 141.39(b), to the extent that, at the time of application, the Administrator may permit a flight school's aircraft to hold airworthiness certificates that are other than standard or primary, if the Administrator determines that such types of aircraft may be used. This would include such specialized roles as agricultural, external-load, test-pilot, and special operations.

Section 141.77 Limitations. This section has been clarified by specifying the requirement for the manner in which a school may give credit for another school's certification. Specifically, this credit relates to the kind and amount of training the previous school provided to a student who has since transferred.

Section 141.93 Enrollment. Paragraph (a)(3)(v) has been clarified by changing the term "write-offs" to "approval for return-to-service determinations," even though the former term was used before adoption of the final rule. The FAA is making this change because the term was never adequately explained, and it is not part of common aviation terminology.

Appendix B to Part 141—Private Pilot Certification Course. Section No. 4, paragraphs (c)(2), (3), and (4) have been corrected to permit the additional use of training time in flight simulators and flight training devices in approved courses. This change reflects the changes set forth in the final rule, which incorporated a new definition for "flight simulators" and introduced a new definition for "flight training devices," with other training equipment falling under the definition of "training aids and equipment." As a result of these changes, the number of hours that could be credited for flight training devices based on the older definition of "ground trainers" no longer corresponded to the total number of hours that could be credited for training specified in part 141 before the amendment. Because this reduction was unintentional, the FAA is adjusting the amount of training permitted in flight training devices to avoid any reduction in the amount of training time that may be credited. To preserve the ratio of training time that may be credited in a part 141 course between flight training devices and flight simulators, the amount of training time that may be credited in a flight simulator also has been adjusted.

Appendix C to Part 141—Instrument Rating Course. Section No. 4, paragraph (b)(3) has been modified for the same reasons as appendix B, section No. 4, paragraphs (c)(2), (3), and (4).

Appendix D to Part 141—Commercial Pilot Certification Course. Section No. 3, paragraph (a) has been changed to reduce the hours of training required for the commercial pilot certification course for an airplane or powered-lift category rating, because candidates for the course are already required to hold an instrument rating before enrolling in the course. At the same time, a new section No. (a)(2) was created with increased hour requirements to provide for a lighter-than-air category with an airship class rating. This increase was inadvertently omitted from the final rule, and is a result of the FAA's decision to withdraw the proposed instrument rating for the airship class. As a result, a commercial pilot certification course would require increased hours for airship class candidates. This would provide a comparable level of training and experience among pilots regardless of the rating obtained. Section No. 4, paragraph (a) has been changed for the same reasons. Paragraphs (c)(2), (3), and (4) have been modified for the same reasons as appendix B, section No. 4, paragraphs (c)(2), (3), and (4).

Appendix F to Part 141—Flight Instructor Certification Course. Section 4, paragraph (c)(6)(vii) has been clarified to include tows as well as launches, and to specify go-arounds "if applicable" because only certain gliders are motorized.

Appendix I to Part 141—Additional Aircraft Category or Class Rating Course. Section No. 3 has been corrected to clarify that an approved course for an additional aircraft category rating or additional class rating must include only the ground training time requirements and ground training on the aeronautical knowledge areas that are specific to that aircraft category and class rating and pilot certificate level for which the course applies as provided in appendixes A, B, D, or E of this part. It was not the FAA's intent to require that the course for an additional rating include the total ground training time requirements for the pilot certificate. Section No. 4, paragraph (a) has been corrected for reasons similar to those discussed in the preamble of the corrections to Section No. 3. In addition, paragraphs (b)(2), (3), and (4) have been modified for the same reasons as appendix B, section No. 4, paragraphs (c)(2), (3), and (4).

(a) Type ratings required. A person who acts as a pilot in command of any of the following aircraft must hold a type rating for that aircraft:

(1) Large aircraft (except lighter-than-air).

(2) Turbojet-powered airplanes.

(3) Other aircraft specified by the Administrator through aircraft type certificate procedures.

(b) Authorization in lieu of a type rating. A person may be authorized to operate without a type rating for up to 60 days an aircraft requiring a type rating, provided—

(1) The Administrator has authorized the flight or series of flights;

(2) The Administrator has determined that an equivalent level of safety can be achieved through the operating limitations on the authorization;

(3) The person shows that compliance with paragraph (a) of this section is impracticable for the flight or series of flights; and

(4) The flight—

(i) Involves only a ferry flight, training flight, test flight, or practical test for a pilot certificate or rating;

(ii) Is within the United States;

(iii) Does not involve operations for compensation or hire unless the compensation or hire involves payment for the use of the aircraft for training or taking a practical test; and

(iv) Involves only the carriage of flight crewmembers considered essential for the flight.

(5) If the flight or series of flights cannot be accomplished within the time limit of the authorization, the Administrator may authorize an additional period of up to 60 days to accomplish the flight or series of flights.

(c) Aircraft category, class, and type ratings: Limitations on the carriage of persons, or operating for compensation or hire. Unless a person holds a category, class, and type rating (if a class and type rating is required) that applies to the aircraft, that person may not act as pilot in command of an aircraft that is carrying another person, or is operated for compensation or hire. That person also may not act as pilot in command of that aircraft for compensation or hire.

(d) Aircraft category, class, and type ratings: Limitations on operating an aircraft as the pilot in command. To serve as the pilot in command of an aircraft, a person must—

(1) Hold the appropriate category, class, and type rating (if a class rating and type rating are required) for the aircraft to be flown;

(2) Be receiving training for the purpose of obtaining an additional pilot certificate and rating that are appropriate to that aircraft, and be under the supervision of an authorized instructor; or

(3) Have received training required by this part that is appropriate to the aircraft category, class, and type rating (if a class or type rating is required) for the aircraft to be flown, and have received the required endorsements from an instructor who is authorized to provide the required endorsements for solo flight in that aircraft.

(e) Additional training required for operating complex airplanes. (1) Except as provided in paragraph (e)(2) of this section, no person may act as pilot in command of a complex airplane (an airplane that has a retractable landing gear, flaps, and a controllable pitch propeller; or, in the case of a seaplane, flaps and a controllable pitch propeller), unless the person has—

(i) Received and logged ground and flight training from an authorized instructor in a complex airplane, or in a flight simulator or flight training device that is representative of a complex airplane, and has been found proficient in the operation and systems of the airplane; and

(ii) Received a one-time endorsement in the pilot's logbook from an authorized instructor who certifies the person is proficient to operate a complex airplane.

(2) The training and endorsement required by paragraph (e)(1) of this section is not required if the person has logged flight time as pilot in command of a complex airplane, or in a flight simulator or flight training device that is representative of a complex airplane prior to August 4, 1997.

(f) Additional training required for operating high-performance airplanes.

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (f)(2) of this section, no person may act as pilot in command of a high-performance airplane (an airplane with an engine of more than 200 horsepower), unless the person has—

(i) Received and logged ground and flight training from an authorized instructor in a high-performance airplane, or in a flight simulator or flight training device that is representative of a high-performance airplane, and has been found proficient in the operation and systems of the airplane; and

(ii) Received a one-time endorsement in the pilot's logbook from an authorized instructor who certifies the person is proficient to operate a high-performance airplane.

(2) The training and endorsement required by paragraph (f)(1) of this section is not required if the person has logged flight time as pilot in command of a high-performance airplane, or in a flight simulator or flight training device that is representative of a high-performance airplane prior to August 4, 1997.

(g) Additional training required for operating pressurized aircraft capable of operating at high altitudes. (1) Except as provided in paragraph (g)(3) of this section, no person may act as pilot in command of a pressurized aircraft (an aircraft that has a service ceiling or maximum operating altitude, whichever is lower, above 25,000 feet MSL), unless that person has received and logged ground training from an authorized instructor and obtained an endorsement in the person's logbook or training record from an authorized instructor who certifies the person has satisfactorily accomplished the ground training. The ground training must include at least the following subjects:

(i) High-altitude aerodynamics and meteorology;

(ii) Respiration;

(iii) Effects, symptoms, and causes of hypoxia and any other high-altitude sickness;

(iv) Duration of consciousness without supplemental oxygen;

(v) Effects of prolonged usage of supplemental oxygen;

(vi) Causes and effects of gas expansion and gas bubble formation;

(vii) Preventive measures for eliminating gas expansion, gas bubble formation, and high-altitude sickness;

(viii) Physical phenomena and incidents of decompression; and

(ix) Any other physiological aspects of high-altitude flight.

(2) Except as provided in paragraph (g)(3) of this section, no person may act as pilot in command of a pressurized aircraft unless that person has received and logged training from an authorized instructor in a pressurized aircraft, or in a flight simulator or flight training device that is representative of a pressurized aircraft, and obtained an endorsement in the person's logbook or training record from an authorized instructor who found the person proficient in the operation of a pressurized aircraft. The flight training must include at least the following subjects:

(i) Normal cruise flight operations while operating above 25,000 feet MSL;

(ii) Proper emergency procedures for simulated rapid decompression without actually depressurizing the aircraft; and

(iii) Emergency descent procedures.

(3) The training and endorsement required by paragraphs (g)(1) and (g)(2) of this section are not required if that person can document satisfactory accomplishment of any of the following in a pressurized aircraft, or in a flight simulator or flight training device that is representative of a pressurized aircraft:

(i) Serving as pilot in command before April 15, 1991;

(ii) Completing a pilot proficiency check for a pilot certificate or rating before April 15, 1991;

(iii) Completing an official pilot-in-command check conducted by the military services of the United States; or

(iv) Completing a pilot-in-command proficiency check under part 121, 125, or 135 of this chapter conducted by the Administrator or by an approved pilot check airman.

(h) Additional training required by the aircraft's type certificate. No person may serve as pilot in command of an aircraft that the Administrator has determined requires aircraft type-specific training unless that person has—

(1) Received and logged type-specific training in the aircraft, or in a flight simulator or flight training device that is representative of that type of aircraft; and

(2) Received a logbook endorsement from an authorized instructor who has found the person proficient in the operation of the aircraft and its systems.

(i) Additional training required for operating tailwheel airplanes. (1) Except as provided in paragraph (i)(2) of this section, no person may act as pilot in command of a tailwheel airplane unless that person has received and logged flight training from an authorized instructor in a tailwheel airplane and received an endorsement in the person's logbook from an authorized instructor who found the person proficient in the operation of a tailwheel airplane. The flight training must include at least the following the maneuvers and procedures:

(i) Normal and crosswind takeoffs and landings;

(ii) Wheel landings (unless the manufacturer has recommended against such landings); and

(iii) Go-around procedures.

(2) The training and endorsement required by paragraph (i)(1) of this section is not required if the person logged pilot-in-command time in a tailwheel airplane before April 15, 1991.

(j) Additional training required for operating a glider. (1) No person may act as pilot in command of a glider—

(i) Using ground-tow procedures, unless that person has satisfactorily accomplished ground and flight training on ground-tow procedures and operations, and has received an endorsement from an authorized instructor who certifies in that pilot's logbook that the pilot has been found proficient in ground-tow procedures and operations;
